DRASTIC TAX BILL PASSES HOUSE TODAY

Republican Minority Over-ridden by Democrats

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The administration's $803,000,000 tax bill was passed by the heavily-Democratic house today over opposition votes of the Republican minority.

Speaker Byrnes announced the vote as 267 to 99.

The bulky measure, designed to raise funds to meet bonus and farm relief costs and embracing a complete revision of the corporate tax system, now goes to the senate where the finance committee already has begun its consideration.

Tomorrow, Secretary Morgenthau will testify before the committee at its first public hearing.

A somewhat warmer reception awaited the measure in the senate committee than it would have received last week. Criticism of the proposal was less in evidence among the Democratic committee members and many of them were forecasting its approval.

The major feature of the bill was a tax on corporate income graduated on the basis of earnings withheld from distribution to stockholders.

For Farm and Bonus Funds.

Linked with application of the normal 4 per cent income tax on dividends, it is expected to bring in $623,000,000 additional to help meet President Roosevelt's request for farm and bonus funds.

The vote on passage, cleft along party lines, was a mere formality which sealed the tentative approval given the bill yesterday. With only four changes—all proposed by the ways and means committee in charge of the legislation—the 236-page measure had been hustled through the amendment stage with such speed as to give rise to protests of "unfair" and "steam-roller" tactics.

Its backers claim it will lead to more equitable taxation, particularly as between corporations and partnerships, and at the same time remove the greatest loophole for tax evasion—the ability of individuals to avoid high surtaxes on incomes by impounding income in corporate surpluses.

Republican Claims.

Republicans contended the bill would shake the stability of business, tend toward creation of monopolies and fall far short of its estimated yield. They have branded it as dangerous, unsound, and radical.

In addition to the revenue to be produced from the new corporate tax plan, $100,000,000 is expected from an 80 per cent "windfall" levy on processors who did not pay AAA processing taxes and $83,000,000 from temporary continuation of excess profits and capital stock taxes.

The latter ultimately would be repealed, along with the present corporate income tax of 12 1/2 to 15 per cent.

The new corporation rates would range up to 29 1/2 per cent for corporations with taxable income of $10,000 or less and up to 42 1/2 per cent for those with larger net earnings.

Rep. Allen is Made Chairman Illinois House Delegation

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Rep. Leo Allen of Galena, was elected chairman today of the Illinois Republican congressional delegation, succeeding Rep. John T. Buckbee of Rockford, who died last week.

Allen, 38 years old, is said to be the youngest chairman the delegation has ever had. He is serving his second term and was nominated April 14 for his third.

The Illinois delegation, now numbering five, is the smallest at any time since Civil War days.

Allen and Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin are the oldest Republicans in the house from Illinois in point of service. The three other Republicans from the state—Leslie S. Arends of Melvin, Ralph Church of Evanston and Chauncey Reed of West Chicago, are serving their first terms.

SOME ODDITIES IN TODAY'S A. P. WORLD NEWS REPORT

GOT HIS FISH
Columbia, S. C., April 29.—(AP)—When Lonnie Goodwin noticed a commotion in the shallow waters of the Columbia canal, he waded in and hooked his fingers in the gills of a huge fish. Two passers-by saw his struggle and beat the fish on the head with rocks. Together they dragged it out.

It proved to be a 289-pound sturgeon, measuring eight feet.

MOURNS FOR GOAT
Greenville, Ga., April 29.—(AP)—Cecil Perkerson mourned today as lost his fox hunting billy goat, the only creature of its kind, he claimed, and one which he fears cannot be replaced.

The goat, which followed the hounds regularly, hasn't returned from a run of 10 days ago. Perkerson said he believed the goat either had tangled its horns in a fence and died there, or was ensnared by a thief to be roasted "in somebody's barbecue pit."

JUDGE RELENTED
Milwaukee, April 29.—(AP)—Arrested on charges of speeding, passing on the left side of a street car and running through a stop sign, John H. Holtz, Ft. Peck, Mont., was fined $50 and costs by Judge George E. Page.

"But Judge," protested Holtz, "I'm on my honeymoon and I've only got $40."

Judge Page suspended the fine and remanded custody of the defendant to his bride.

Attempt to Rob Bank at Holcomb This Morning Fails

Two men, in an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the Holcomb National bank today, poured a hail of machine gun slugs against the bullet-proof glass surrounding the cashier's cage and fled without loot.

Shouting "this is a stickup," the two opened fire at the cage, then turned and dashed from the door when the 11-4 inch glass stood up behind the glass escaped injury, as did an unidentified customer caught in the line of fire.

Howard Johnston, cashier, said he was in his office at the rear of the bank when one of the two men entered and asked for him.

"Then," Johnston said, "he stepped out of the bank, returning with a companion. One man yanked out a machine gun, yelled, 'this is a stickup' and opened fire."

Escaped in Sedan

Witnesses said the two men escaped in a black 1935 Plymouth sedan which carried an Illinois license number starting with the figures "262—" but could not be sure whether the plates were for 1935 or 1936. Such a car was reported stolen from a dealer's lot in Rockford last night.

Sam Geary, Ogle county deputy sheriff, said he learned that one man, young and of small build, was dressed in what appeared to be a chauffeur's uniform. The other, tall and dark, wore a dark suit.

"Whether they were part of the Carlinville gang which seems to have been making a lot of trouble in Indiana I can't say," Geary said. "There were only two men, but they had a machine gun, just like the Carlinville mob."

(Five men who broke jail in Carlinville, Ill., Thursday night were reported to have slain an Indianapolis police sergeant Monday night after a robbery in Lima, O.)

Vidie Held Under Bonds of $5,000

Ignatz Vidie of Pekin was held under bonds of $5,000 this morning when he was taken before Justice J. O. Shaull for arraignment on a charge of receiving and disposing of stolen goods. Vidie is one of the trio now in the Lee county jail, held in connection with the kidnapping and hi-jacking of a load of 55 hogs en route to the Chicago market on Sunday night, April 19, about one-half mile east of Franklin Grove on the Lincoln Highway.

State Attorney Rex Farrior indicated he would attempt to show McCaskill was a police informer, planted at the Modern Democrats meeting.

LIFE OF IERC EXTENDED BY LEGISLATURE

Relief Stations of the State Will Not Be Closed Thursday

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—Members of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission have been called into a special meeting tomorrow to allocate funds for relief needs during the first half of May.

The call, issued by Frank C. Glick, assistant to Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary, was contingent upon signature of a bill passed last night by the legislature extending the commission's life from April 30 to July 1.

Allocations will be made on an anticipated income of about $2,000,000 from May sales tax collections. Estimated needs for the month are about $5,000,000.

The commission, Glick said, also will rescind at tomorrow's meeting instructions issued to county relief authorities to end relief work at midnight tomorrow night.

CRISIS Averted
Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—The May 1 relief crisis vanished today as the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission was re-instated by the legislature, which also made mandatory the levying of pauper taxes by local governments seeking state aid for the jobless.

In a burst of activity, the senate and house decided to retain the IERC in its present form until July 1 and then make it the agency for allocating funds to the counties.

Secretary Leo M. Lyons announced that upon Gov. Horner's assurance he would sign the bill Lyons would rescind his order for all relief stations to close tomorrow night.

Chairman John C. Martin said the IERC could function for the first two weeks of June on sales tax revenues, giving the special session additional time to do something about additional financing.

While the last of the Hickman-Lantz-Pinn bills went to Horner, the house was ready to vote on an appropriation of $4,000,000 to the relief commission for May and June.

May Split Sales Tax
A bill to use half instead of a third of the three per cent sales tax for relief also received attention following a conference attended by the governor and a group of supervisors.

The first was the Sinnott-Green repealer of the earlier order that the IERC stop its active work on May 1. The commission was authorized to continue its present activities until July 1, then becoming the allocating agency under the proposed transfer of administrative responsibility to local government.

The second was the Hickman-Lantz-Pinn bill providing that after Sept. 30 state relief funds will be allocated only to local government.

Unemployed Continue to Occupy N. J. State House and City Hall in St. Louis

New Jerseyites Demand Passage of Own Program

Trenton, N. J., April 29.—(AP)—New Jersey's unemployed, who for nine days have occupied the state assembly chamber as a protest against the legislature's failure to provide relief funds, demanded "immediate action" today and offered a four-tax program of their own to solve the crisis.

As legislators returned to the Capitol for another of their many efforts to try to break the deadlock preventing enactment of a relief program, the unemployed called for passage of a graduated income tax bill, a tax on surpluses of corporations, and taxes on excess profits and intangible property. They said they were against a sales tax "as taxing the poor to feed the poor."

The unemployed group, which moved into the assembly room April 21 and promised to remain until the lawmakers found money to provide for them, was wavering in its decision to retain possession of the chamber. One faction sought to leave Monday night but was outvoted by another wishing to remain until today at least.

Republican leaders in the assembly expected to push through tonight's session a measure which would return direct supervision of relief to municipalities and establish a state house commission, composed of the governor and other state officials, as the dispenser of relief funds.

Earlier Chadsey had pleaded with them to go, and turned down a request they be permitted to have coffee and meat for sandwiches brought in during the night. Friends and sympathetic grocers furnished cigarettes and sandwiches yesterday.

"My instructions are that the city hall is to remain closed at night," Chadsey told the group. "There is no ordinance that would permit anything to be brought in."

The protest was an outgrowth of the dropping from relief rolls last week of 14,000 persons termed "employables" after discontinuance of federal and state aid.

SHARP DECLINE IN FATAL AUTO ACCIDENTS SEEN

Nation Responding to Safety Campaigns Figures Show

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—The National Safety Council pointed to a sharp slump in traffic deaths today as an indication that the nation had responded to the campaign against careless driving.

The council announced an 18 per cent drop in motor vehicle fatalities in March compared to the same month in 1935. This was termed a "startling reduction."

Highway deaths in the first quarter of 1936 were estimated at 6,850 against 7,500 in a comparable period last year—a reduction of 9 per cent.

The council, appalled by the all-time high slaughter of 36,400 in 1935, instituted a drive in January to curtail motor fatalities 7 per cent in each of the next five years.

Lower fatality rates were reported for March by 19 states, topped by South Dakota with a 61 per cent drop.

Toll In Illinois
Chicago ranked 11th among cities of more than 500,000 population for the first quarter with 181 traffic deaths and a death rate of 20.7. For the same period of 1935 Chicago had 185 traffic deaths.

Other Illinois cities which were ranked included: Population 50,000 to 100,000—Rockford, 1 death, death rate, 4.5; Springfield, 1 and 5.4.

Population 25,000 to 50,000—Bloomington, no deaths; Elgin, 1 and 10.7; Waukegan, 1 and 11.2; Aurora, 2 and 16.9; Moline 2 and 24.6; Galesburg, 2 and 26.9; Danville, 6 and 64.3.

Population 10,000 to 25,000—Freeport, Jacksonville, Wilmette, Ottawa, La Salle, Harrisburg, La Grange, East Moline, Sterling, no deaths; Dixon, 1 and 37.1; Kankakee, 2 and 37.6.

Missouri Jobless Refuse to Leave the Council Room

St. Louis, April 29.—(AP)—Forty jobless men and women, and four children of one couple, were encamped in the city hall for their second day today in a "hunger protest" against the failure of aldermen to provide additional money for relief.

The unemployed began a passive, waiting protest at noon yesterday when the board of aldermen adjourned until May 11 after referring urgent appeals for relief aid to a special board relief committee.

Men, women and children settled for the night in the closely built, uncomfortable seats of the cramped gallery of the aldermanic chamber after city officials had failed in several attempts to persuade them to disperse.

Director of Public Safety George W. Chadsey met with flat refusal when he tried to get the campers to leave on the promise he would arrange an interview for them today with Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann.

Earlier Chadsey had pleaded with them to go, and turned down a request they be permitted to have coffee and meat for sandwiches brought in during the night. Friends and sympathetic grocers furnished cigarettes and sandwiches yesterday.

"My instructions are that the city hall is to remain closed at night," Chadsey told the group. "There is no ordinance that would permit anything to be brought in."

The protest was an outgrowth of the dropping from relief rolls last week of 14,000 persons termed "employables" after discontinuance of federal and state aid.

ALL EXPRESS SATISFACTION WITH RESULTS

Pennsylvania and Massachusetts Voted Tuesday

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Supporters of President Roosevelt for re-election and of Gov. Landon of Kansas and Sen. Borah of Idaho to oppose him in November drew satisfaction today from the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries.

Overwhelming Col. Henry Breckinridge, his first primary opponent, the President accumulated a total in Pennsylvania that spoke for itself. Addition of the delegates from both states brought those listed for him to 442, or all of those so far selected, of the 1,100 to be seated at Philadelphia.

Because neither primary was binding on the delegates chosen, Republican leaders were hesitant to draw final conclusions about the big "write-in" demonstration for Landon in Massachusetts or the total polled by Borah unopposed in Pennsylvania.

Of 592 Republican delegates now elected, 487 are uncommitted. There will be 1,001 in the convention. Of the 105 instructed, Landon has 84 and Borah 21.

Estimate Knox at 153
Endorsements and indications of preference have been given by various state and district meetings, and of some individual delegates. Claims including these conflict. Supporters of Col. Frank Knox of Illinois have estimated his strength to date at 153 delegates.

Complete returns from Massachusetts' 1529 election precincts in the Republican presidential preference primary gave: Borah 4,342; Hoover 7,214; Knox 1,910; Landon 76,710; Vandenberg 2,117.

Pennsylvania Vote
In Pennsylvania, with 3,248 of the state's 7,983 districts reporting, was 312,288, as compared with 17,204 for Breckinridge.

Borah, unopposed on the Republican ballot, polled 183,704 votes in 3,022 districts. In several counties there was a write-in vote for Landon, former President Hoover and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan.

The vote in Massachusetts, in which Landon received more than four times the combined vote of four other Republicans, also attracted interest.

Delegates Unpledged
The preference vote in Pennsylvania is not binding on delegates to the two national conventions. Under an old law Borah would be the "popular choice" of the Republicans. The party leaders, however, said they expect an uncommitted delegation.

'Floaters' Barred, Says Colorado

Following California's example, Colorado has put up its bars against wandering workers from other states. National guardsmen here are showing as they turned back a motoring family of Texans, sugar beet workers, at the Oklahoma Panhandle border. Gov. E. C. Johnson, declaring that Colorado jobs were for Coloradans, ordered the militiamen to border posts, to enforce his ruling.

DO YOU AGREE?

By Joseph Fort Newton

FAITH fit to live by, a self fit to live with, a work fit to live for—these things make life and keep us fit for it.

The question is not what we get out of life, but what we put into it; not whether we are happy, but whether we are helpful.

My old friend Von Hugel used to say, "What a man thinks and what he thinks are often two very different things."

To the Middle Ages we owe the invention of two high explosives—gunpowder and romantic love; either one can blow us up.

No man has a right to drop any custom of his family unless he puts in its place something of the same kind—only finer.

The big things in life are not done for any reason we can define for ourselves or others; they are deeper than reason.

"The difficult is that which takes a little time," said Fridtjof Nansen; "the impossible is what takes a little longer."

At the end of the day the question is not what has happened to us, but what has happened to others through us today.

Of Pasteur, the scientist, it is said he had no patience with people who doubt everything to excuse themselves for doing nothing.

If you are not made for happiness, do not let them be a reason for making others unhappy—keep the secret to yourself.

What we need in the world today is more leaders and fewer bosses, more direction and less dictation, if we are to go on.

Life was not meant to flatter our vanity or satisfy our curiosity; it is a journey to take, a job to do, a joy to discover.

After the defeat of France the wise Gambetta said, "Let us think about these things; let us not speak of them."

If you hear a dirty lie, forget it and let it die—trodden down and crushed by the hurrying, crowded, cruel world.

Whether we make the most of life all depends on what we put first, ourselves, or something bigger, wiser, and kinder than we are. Copyright, 1936, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Augustana Choir To Present Unusual Program Next Friday

The concert of the Augustana Choir which will be presented Friday evening, May 1 at 7:30 o'clock in the Methodist church, is to be quite different from anything heretofore presented in Dixon.

Quite unlike the usual choir of mixed voices that sings as one group throughout the program, the Augustana Choir is made up of two distinct choral groups—the Jenny Lind women's chorus and the Wennerberg Male chorus—each of which appears separately during the first half of the program, these two organizations join, forming the Augustana Choir that sings without instrumental accompaniment of any kind.

This unique arrangement of the program was originated by Director Henry Veld six years ago and has characterized the choir's concerts since that time. The use of the piano in the first half of the program lends a respite from the usual entire evening of unaccompanied singing.

Shirley Temple Style Show at Klines' Enjoyed

They had a Shirley Temple Style Show and party over at Kline's Dept. store the other day, Saturday morning, to be exact, from 10 to 11 o'clock, which was an unprecedented success, being attended by more than 125 guests, mothers and children. When adults have a style revue it is news, of course, but when kiddies have a style show it is news extraordinary—especially when they have a bona fide runway, decorations "everything" to the youngsters ranging in years from two to twelve, it was a gala occasion, and to their mothers as well, and it was all a lot of fun.

The lovely master of ceremonies, Chester Kaiserman, aged four, son of the manager of the store, performed his duties with all the grace and poise of a veteran, announcing the models and their garments, play frocks, bathing suits, party dresses, hats, coats, sun suits, etcetera, etc. Many mothers gleaned ideas and suggestions of value as to summer wardrobes for "the youngster."

Betty Lou Newman, aged three; Carolee Lee Slothower, aged three; Patricia Curran, aged twelve; and Sue Prewitt, aged seven. As each youngster appeared, utterly devoid of self-consciousness, yet childishly sweet and natural, Master Kaiserman did his part in announcing, and the lovely colors of the dainty summer frocks and their perfection of fit and suitability, were exhibited with grace and precision by the little misses.

Each child present was presented with a photo of Shirley, famous young movie star and also a small Shirley Temple birthday cake. Then if mother purchased a dress, the purchaser was presented with a free ticket to Shirley's latest picture, "Captain January," appearing soon at the Dixon theater.

It was a delightful occasion and it is hoped it will be repeated at some future date.

The corps voted to accept Mr. Rorer's offer of putting on a benefit picture for the Corps May 6 and 7.

Mrs. Ethel Gates gave a very interesting report of the trip she and her husband took this last winter, touring the southern states, attending the Mardi Gras at New Orleans and visiting Los Angeles. She also showed a fine collection of souvenirs she brought home with her. Everyone enjoyed her talk so much. FABRIC ROPES

Paris, (AP)—Twists of fabric make "ropes" to trim some of the new hats. A red velvet turban shown by Lelong is draped like an East Indian's headdress, with a thick twist of the velvet covering all the small hat, and not another trace of trimming used.

LANDMARKS

Certain philosophers, viewing unsettled world conditions with the customary alarm, have expressed the fear that another political, economic or military tem-blor would cause us to revert to the dark ages.

It is a well known human trait to refuse to recognize a fact until it has engulfed us. These philosophers are tardy. We are now in the dark ages. The dark ages are upon us now, and we are struggling to find a way out.

We are in the dark ages because every landmark erected through centuries of experience with human nature, has been razed or is under attack. We have befooled ourselves with a false assurance of security because the mechanical contraptions of civilization still
cause the mechanical contraptions of civilization still with function. We erect a tall building and behold it with pride, patting ourselves on the back regardless of the taxes that make it a white elephant. In the United States we marvel at the efficiency of automobiles with which we kill 36,000 persons and injure a million others each year. Our year-round amusements such as the motion pictures and the radio are weaning us from the habit of thinking. Our abolition of the Ten Commandments is breaking up the home.

The British government brings itself to the verge of war by insisting upon independence for Ethiopia, and at the same time shoots down Egyptians who seek independence, disregarding the fact that the Egyptians are more capable of self-government than the savages of Abyssinia.

Italy has a handful of treaties of friendship and whatnot with Ethiopia, yet in the face of all these she attempts to wreck what remains of that ancient country in the name of "civilization." Uplifting with explosives. In pamphlets they drop upon the astonished heads of the savages, the Italians claim "We are beloved of God."

With the exception of the government of the United States, what other regime has any sense of security?
What cabinet knows it will be in existence tomorrow?
What man in the street has any assurance that tomorrow morning he will not be marching in squad formation? What man dealing in foreign markets knows how he can value his balances tomorrow? What country knows the value of its medium of exchange?

The world's largest army and its greatest air force are under command of a government which has abolished God and is pledged to overthrow every other government. The front line of defense against communist Russia is the combined armies of England, Germany, France and Italy, all of them at odds with each other and unable to enforce the treaty they have pretended to hold most sacred.

Yet we must not view this gloomy picture with too much horror. The world always has produced its Savonarolas and other gadflies of the nature of Socrates when it needed them most. Such men thrive best and work hardest in an atmosphere of ignorance and stupidity. The atmosphere is here. Bring on the gadflies.

EARLY NEW DEALER

Back in biblical times there dwelt in the white house of the Roman empire a ruler named Claudius Caesar.
There was nothing remarkable about Claudius except that he was an early New Dealer and a successor of the one and only Julius Caesar.

Early in his reign Claudius conceived the idea of helping the common people by a program of soaking the rich to provide for his PWA program. Among his projects were a harbor and breakwater, a municipal water system to provide a redistribution of water for the inhabitants of Rome, and an enormous drainage program, all of which sounds familiar to modern ears.

Calling for engineering designs and an estimate of costs for the harbor, Claudius immediately got action.
The advisers also threw in, free, the information that the cost would be entirely too high for the national credit to bear. Whereupon Claudius acidly remarked that what he wanted was facts, not advice on the nation's credit. The secretary of the treasury then went into mourning and began looking for the emperor, but Claudius went fishing, presumably. Claudius had a plan whereby he was going to finance the harbor. He called in the members of the corn trust and told them of his plan, asking them to donate, forthwith a million pieces of gold. They exclaimed that they didn't have that much and couldn't get it. Whereupon Claudius subtly suggested that they had better get the money within a stipulated time or else their health would decline. Claudius had a charming way about him. He got action. When he wanted something he told the people he'd have to have it or they could take the consequences, and the way folk were getting poisoned and disappearing at night in those days made them quite anxious to deliver the goods on demand.

Something went wrong with the city's water system, which consisted of aqueducts that brought water from the hills, across the lowlands and valleys into the city.
It seems that certain malefactors of great wealth had bribed employees of the water department to permit them to tap the supply, and the consequence was that the less fortunate didn't have enough water to float a goldfish.

So Claudius soaked the rich again and built more aqueducts. His harbor was completed in twelve years at twice the estimate, and the malefactors of great wealth had additional water lines to tap, but Claudius had another brainstorm. This time he wanted to drain Lake Fucine, a task which employed 30,000 men thirteen years. To celebrate the opening of the gates which were to let the water flow out, Claudius arranged a real sea battle between two fleets of galleys manned by criminals. The criminals fought each other with enormous enthusiasm, suspecting that the victors would be pardoned. The decks ran red with blood and a good time was had by all the half million spectators. Even Claudius attended, accompanied by his fourth wife.

And so the gates were opened, but a landslide blocked the channel and the lake was not actually drained until modern times. Poor Claudius himself was at the end of his rope and was poisoned the next year by his wife. There is no particular moral to this narrative except that Claudius didn't do himself or anyone else any particular good.

"Well, come on, Goldy," Doty said. "A lot of hills are straight will not hurt to peek inside.

there is nothing gained, if nothing's

Then, to one of the hills they ran.
It didn't take them long to scan the inside. Then they both walked out. Said one, "There's naught in work is mainly schools in different were accompanied by a lecture by Miss Palmer.

The rally is considered one of the best that has been held in the dis-of the local Christian Endeavor

Miss Georgia Peterman and her committee have worked hard to make it the success that it was.

NEW DEAL'S TAX POLICIES CAUSE BUSINESS ALARM

Chamber of Commerce Told of Drains on All Industries

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—A leader in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States declared today that it is up to the Roosevelt administration itself to speed the re-employment of idle millions by curbing government spending and changing New Deal tax policies.

Fred H. Clausen of Horicon, Wis., chairman of the chamber's committee on federal finance, said in a speech prepared for delivery at the chamber's 24th convention: "Notwithstanding the repeated challenge of the administration that private industry assume the obligation of re-employment, new exactions of government have had the direct effect of retarding that very process."

Would Limit Taxes
Attacking both the "wealth tax" act of last year and the pending bill to revise the corporate tax structure, he urged that "the federal taxing power be returned to its proper function and be limited to the raising of the revenues required for the economical administration of government."

The chamber, he said, "considers that the outstanding problem that America faces today is the inability to control public expenditures and obtain a balanced federal budget."

Business men are much concerned over it, he said, and "that concern is deepened when we realize that there is no convincing general recognition by those in authority of the serious situation."
This year's tax proposal, involving among other features a graduated tax on undistributed corporate income and removal of the present exemption of dividends from the normal 4 per cent income tax, was assailed by Clausen in these words:

Wonders "How Long?"

"Five times since 1932 and we wonder what the end can be. Shall we cry out in despair 'O Lord, how long—and how much?' After an intensive training period the past three years, I realize that we are combating the opinions of economic advisers most of whom never operated a private industry nor met a factory payroll."
"Since the 1933 policy of economy vanished into thin air," he said, "only one formula to replenish the treasury has been in evidence: More taxes on men and corporations engaged in industry and commerce, and drain the reservoirs required for productive enterprise."

The homegoing of this beloved wife and mother was upon the morning of her 57th wedding anniversary. Hers was a long and useful life, devoted to the welfare of her family and others round about who came in touch with this home as neighbors and friends.

In 1905 the family removed from Tennessee to Illinois, settling in the Pennsylvania Corners neighborhood where they lived for several years before retiring to make their home in Dixon. Early in her girlhood days she accepted Christ as her Savior and continued faithful in His service to the end.

Her membership together with the immediate members of her family, has been in the First Christian church of Dixon for the past several years. She was devoted to the church and attended regularly till ill health came to hinder her.

Though quiet and retiring in disposition, she was yet greatly appreciated and beloved by all who came to know her. Her departure from us leaves a great void that cannot be filled, and the prayers and sympathy of a host of friends go out in behalf of the stricken husband and bereaved loved ones. The fragrant influence of this gentle kind and loving mother will hover over the hearts of all her beloved, to encourage and cheer them in the lonely days that will come. Truly, "her children rise up and call her blessed." "Sister, thou wast mild and lovely. Gentle as the summer breeze, Pleasant as the air of evening. When it floats among the trees."

DRIVING TESTS BEGAN AT NOON

Free Examinations for All Motorists Who Desire Them

Driving tests under the auspices of the Chicago Motor club and the Evening Telegraph began today in the carrier boys' room of the Telegraph and several people took advantage of the opportunity today to test their potential abilities as drivers.

The tests will continue the remainder of the week and tomorrow noon and Friday noon seven Dixon high school boys will assist a competent expert from the department in operating the devices used.

No obligation is incurred in taking these tests. The motor club again emphasized today. Citizens are urged to take the tests merely in the hope they may realize the benefits of protecting themselves and their passengers against the possibility of automobile accidents due to an incomplete knowledge of their own reactions.

Dependable Tests.
The devices, used by taxicab, bus, transit companies and operators of large fleets of vehicles are considered most dependable for the testing of such factors as reaction time, activity, motor coordination, speed estimation, strength of grip, blood pressure, glare resistance, perimeter of vision, acuity of vision, tests for double sight, depth perception, color perception and hearing.

The motor club has entered the field to raise the general level of driver fitness in its territory, to accelerate education of drivers through the use of these new and interest-excitng devices and to further knowledge in the field of driver testing to assist in its eventual standardization.

BREVITY MOST FEARED HORSE IN BIG DERBY

Jockey Wright Is Satisfied With His Mount

Louisville, Ky., April 29.—(AP)—A low-headed boy, neatly dressed in a riding habit, loomed outside one of Churchill Downs' green-painted barns. Occasionally his eyes wandered over to a nearby paddock where another boy, not so neatly attired, was cooling out a horse.

Scores of men walked past, paying little or no heed to the boy, except to wish him "good morning." The horse attracted even less attention as he walked round and round the small circle, almost like a robot.

Suddenly a broad smile broke the boy's countenance as if he was dreaming. Then with a sigh of contentment, he settled back into his chair with an air that said—all's right with the world.

And content he might well be for the boy was Wayne Wright; the horse, J. E. Widener. Together they form the feared combination for the 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

Speed Respected.

Brevity is feared because of his great speed, Wright because he not only ranks among the leading riders, but he's on a winning streak. Jockeys say that when a rider is hot, he's mighty tough to stop. Already the 21-year-old Rexburg, Idaho, blond veteran has won three stakes and more than $150,000 this year. He took the Santa Anita Handicap with Top Row, the Santa Anita Derby with Mrs. Silas B. Mason's He Did and the Florida Derby with Brevity.

"Why shouldn't I feel confident?" asked Wright. "He's beaten everything that's opposed him this year and in a manner that left little to be desired."

That just about tells the belief of horsemen and laymen alike, as they thronged into the city today. Except for a scattered few, they went no farther than Brevity when asked to name their selection for the Derby.

The complexion of the race was changed some, as the result of yesterday's developments, but Brevity was not affected.

Stepped Into Picture.

He did stepped into the picture more seriously by whipping Mrs. F. C. Mars' Sanereal and Grand Slam from the Bomar stable in the final Derby trial of one mile. W. S. Kilmer's Ned Reigh was listed as a doubtful starter as the result of developing a high fever following his trip from New York.

A more definite line was expected today on the highly regarded trio trained by James Fitzsimmons when the veteran trainer's assistant, George Tappan, sends the Wheatley's stable Teufel, and William Woodward's Granville and Merry out for a serious workout. Yesterday they did nothing more than gallop while Major A. C. Taylor's Indian Broom was reeling off a mile in the sensational time of 1:38 3-5. Some ventured the opinion that the "Indian's" world record holder for one and one-eighth mile might prove more dangerous than first thought.

U. S. OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT FIELD LARGEST EVER

New York, April 29.—(AP)—What probably will be the biggest field of hopeful golfers ever to seek the United States open golf championship will be off in the sectional qualifying rounds May 11, closing of entries disclosed.

Pending the final official check-up, which will take the greater part of the week, the list stands at 1,185 entries, eight more than the record total of 1930. The final figure may vary by as many as 25 or 30 names, however, Joseph Dey, U. S. G. A. executive secretary, said.

The sectional qualifying tests will take place on 23 courses—another record total—and all but 33 of the entries will have to compete for places among the selected 160 who are to form the field for the big tournament at the Baltusrol club, Short Hills, N. J., June 4, 5, and 6.

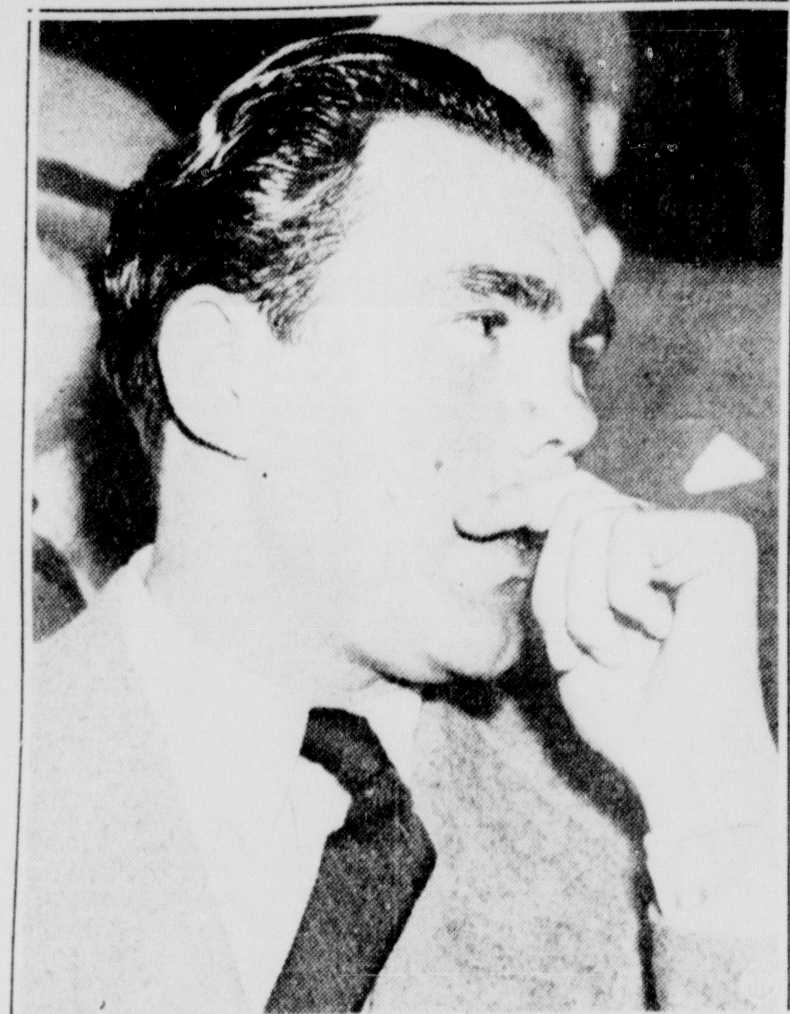

Thirty players were exempted from the sectional qualifying rounds because of their performances in the 1935 open and to this list were added Johnny Farrell, the Baltusrol pro, and two visiting Japanese professionals, Torchy Toda and Chick Chur.

Dixon Cinder Team Wins Triangular Meet With Rochelle and Mendota

McMillon Takes Three Firsts, One Record

Three records collapsed after a dizzy gyrations of points and fractions of points in a triangular track and field meet that finally ended with Dixon nearly 2 to 1 Mendota and Rochelle at Mendota Tuesday afternoon.

When the final gun of the last event had sounded and mathematicians had fitted the last fraction of a point into its proper niche on the jigsaw tally board, Dixon high team had 76 1/2 points, Rochelle's 35 1/6 and Mendota squad, 14 2/6.

The meet was billed on Dixon high school's schedule as a dual affair between Mendota and the Purple and White. Upon arriving at the field however, the locals found themselves confronted by Rochelle's team as well. The situation did not prevent the locals from cashing in on at least one of the three new records. Mickey McMillon stepped off the 120 yard high hurdles in a :17 second sprint lowering the former record by 4 seconds. He also got first in the 200 yard hurdles and broad jump. The other two records were counted by giant Harnis of Rochelle. He threw the javelin through the tennis court fences for a new meet record of 167 feet and 4 inches topping the former meet record by six inches. He also heaved the shot 46 feet, 2 inches exceeding the former figure of 41 feet and 10 inches.

Get Firsts and Seconds.

Dixon compiled its points largely through the ability of the Purple and White boys in capturing at least two places in nearly every event. In the 220 yard dash, 880 yard run, mile run, and javelin the locals only placed once. In these cases Dixon placed either first or second, where points counted the most.

Following is the summary:

EASTERN BALL CLUBS SNATCH EARLY LEADS

Pennants of Major Leagues Wave In The West Now

BY ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The eastern teams are off to a good start in the campaign against their rivals from the west, where both major league pennants wave. The first intersectional brushes of the season over, the eastern clubs find themselves with five victories, against one for the clubs from the inland cities.

The world champion Detroit Tigers downed the Washington Senators 8-1 yesterday to record the lone victory for the west. In the National league the Pirates went down before the Phillies 9-7 and the juvenile Reds were defeated 5-2 by the Boston Bees. In American league encounters, the Yankees shut out the Indians 2-0, the Red Sox best the White Sox 11-8 and the Athletics defeated the Browns 4-2.

3 Fine Performances

Three fine pitching performances were turned in with Charley Ruffing the big Yankee finger, topping the others with a four hit shut out over the Indians. Ruffing pitched perfect ball for five innings, Billy Sullivan getting the first safety off him in the sixth. He struck out three and did not allow a single base on balls.

Harry Kelley, the 30-year-old rookie of the Athletics who pitched a three-hitter against the Red Sox a week ago, let the Browns down with six bingles and two runs. Lefty Joe Sullivan, making his first start of the season for the Tigers, held the Senators to eight hits.

Hank Greenberg got his first homer of the year as the Tigers lambasted two Washington twirlers. Goose Goslin also hit for the circuit.

Blanton Driven From Box

Cy Blanton, sensation rookie of last season, was knocked from the box for the fourth time this season as the Phils downed the Bees. He lasted only three and two-thirds innings. Old Tom Zachary started on the mound for the Phillies but was shelled from the mound after five and one-third innings.

The Red Sox murderers row took kindly to the offerings of four Chicago pitchers getting 16 hits with Jimmie Fox hitting his fifth homer of the year. Billy Werber made one of the most sensational catches of the season when he ran down the stairs of the dugout and with one hand on the roof, speared a fly with the other.

Ray Benge, pitching for the Bees, held the Reds hitless for five innings. The Bees made 14 hits off the slants of Paul Derringer in eight frames.

MINOR LEAGUES WIN FIRST BOUT AGAINST RADIO

Nothing Definite On Broadcasting 'Till Next December

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—The minor leagues today had won the opening round in their fight against the broadcasting of major league baseball games, but there'll be no decision in the "air battle" until the major leagues hold their joint meeting next December.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, ruled yesterday that "pending further notice all major and minor leagues and clubs will refrain from making any additional commitments, arrangements or authorizations for radio broadcasts of baseball games."

Landis refused to commit himself as to whether the ruling meant broadcasts would be banned next season.

The order came after a meeting requested by W. G. Bramham, president of the national association of professional baseball leagues, the minor league unit. It was the association's contention that broadcasts of major league games was seriously harming attendance at minor league parks. The meeting was attended by Bramham, Ford Frick, National league president, William Harridge, president of the American league, and George Trautman, president of the American association.

"The protest by the minor league clubs did not concern broadcasts by big stations directly from major league parks so much as it did broadcasts of major league territory Harridge said. "The practice has grown and something must be done to protect the minors."

Landis said minor league clubs playing night ball felt broadcasts helped their attendance. Those playing in the afternoon, however, objected strenuously to the broadcasts, he said.

LEGION'S SHOW KEPT AUDIENCE IN HUGE UPROAR

Leap Year Follies is Hilarious From Curtain to Curtain

Capacity houses witnessed the American Legion Leap Year Follies at the Dixon theatre Tuesday night, at which Mae West, Greta Garbo, and other notables of the stage and screen made "personal" appearances.

"Every girl a man, and every man a lady" was the theme incorporated successfully into the hilarious production which sent the audience into gales of laughter with each rise of the curtain on a new episode.

Among the uproarious acts were "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere," "Major Bowes Amateur Hour," "The Glorified Girls" chorus who danced to the wild strains of "Wahoo" and "The Pacing of the Stork."

Novelties Pleased

Novelty tap dance numbers by Elsie Neff and members of her dancing class added zest to the production between episodes. Forrest Suter as Mae West swung a wicked hip. His impersonation of the buxom actress brought down the house as he leered and leered his way across the stage. Russell Byers' fainting spell apropos to a frightened feminine amateur before the microphone provided side-splitting laughter, and the unofficial performance of Mayor William V. Slothower also provoked much hilarity from the audience. Thurlie Swain was a bouncing kewpie in the garb of an innocent three year old.

Others in Cast

In the cast were: Glorified Girls—John Cahill, O. W. Dodd, Jr., Jack Little, Paul Wolf, W. E. Wilson, Earl Watts, Frank Vaseen, James Ketchin, Leo Rigby, Vernon Schroock, Walter Fallstrom, and Thomas Sklavents.

Dr. L. R. Evans was Marlene Dietrich, Earl Jones was Sally Rand, Guy Gemignani played Greta Garbo and Forrest Suter impersonated Mae West. The Amateur Hour cast Walter Mueller as Graham McNamee, with amateurs Russell Byers, R. A. Thompson, George Thompson and George Myers.

John Moyer was Paul Revere supported by Earl Watts, David Leir, Harold Curren, and Curtis Gleason. "The Pacing of the Stork" was presented by Edwin Eichler, Glenn Cortright, Harry Jones and Mr. Cyniski. "The Eternal Triangle" was played by Mayor V. Slothower, James Cleidon and James Ketchin.

"Mama Loves Papa" was given by W. E. Wood and Gerald Jones as the fond parents and Thurlie Swain the bouncing baby. "The Wedding Scene" was presented by Charles Burke, groom, and Duke Kennedy, bride, supported by the entire cast in the grand finale.

Mr. Thompson's piano solo during the amateur hour was one of the highlights of the musical talent of the show.

COLISEUM IS PREPARED FOR BIG CONCLAVE

Democrats Haven't Selected Keynote Speaker Yet

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—Preparations for the Coliseum at the fairgrounds for the state Democratic convention Friday began Tuesday as party chiefs worked on details of the session.

The orders to fairground employees was given by Governor Horner following a conference with Harry Hershey of Taylorville, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The identity of the keynote was not yet determined, but Mr. Horner's aids who sat in the conference Monday said the choice had narrowed to Illinois senators, J. Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich.

The latter was opposed to Governor Horner's renomination and the inclusion of his name by Horner Democrats as a possible keynote was as an alternative if the Governor's forces and Chicago organization chiefs resumed their pre-primary controversy.

Horner Not Admired
Endorsed this week by the Cook county convention, however, Governor Horner was reported by an aid as willing to concede selection of then ational convention delegation to the Chicagoans, thus insuring the election of Cook County Chairman Patrick A. Nash as national committeeman. State convention votes are on the basis of one for every 500 Democratic primary voters, which would give Cook county a heavy vote on any issue.

State Treasurer John Stelle, staying aloof from most of the convention discussions publicly, but admitted by himself to be in close touch with State Chairman Bruce A. Campbell, said Nash would confer with the governor today. Horner said yesterday he would be glad to confer with the Chicago leader, and on their discussion was expected to hinge the decisions of the committee on arrangements when it meets tonight.

Nash Will Control
The committee names the keynote as well as the chairman of the important resolutions committee. Besides Campbell and Hershey, the other member is A. M. Murphysboro, who with Campbell is expected to swing the decisions as Nash wishes them. This was conceded by Horner Democrats.

Approximately 6,000 delegates were expected at the convention Friday. Daniel Sullivan, secretary of the central committee said after yesterday's conference. Plans are being made for special trains from Chicago to be routed direct to the fairgrounds and although the convention call is for the chamber of the House of Representatives at the Capitol, the meeting will be adjourned immediately to the Coliseum.

DAILY HEALTH

DISEASE UNCHANGING

While it is true that diseases vary in their severity so that, like scarlet fever, they may for a time be mild and then become devastating, yet medical history reveals the unchanging character of disease germs and their effects.

The tubercle bacilli, found in Egyptian mummies, are precisely like those which can be isolated from the sputum of the tuberculosis victim today. The progress of pulmonary tuberculosis, the hectic flush, the wasting of the body, the harassing cough, are witnessed today as in the times of Hippocrates. The disease smallpox described by ancient Hindus does not vary one bit from its present-day manifestations.

The oldest descriptions of the plague are plainly indicative of the disease as it is known today.

The seasonal variations of pneumonias, the characteristic mode of onset, and the complications are the same now as when Hippocrates described them.

Twenty-three hundred years ago Greek physicians described mumps and the accompanying involvement of the male sexual glands. The Arabian physicians described and differentiated chicken pox from smallpox and scarlet fever from measles, and the descriptions given by them of the diseases are valid today.

New diseases may develop from time to time, but the old diseases, those adequately recognized and fully described, appear to have remained unchanged since ancient times.

Missing an Autograph Opportunity

The rompered young miss at left looks as though she were about to run home to get her autograph book and take advantage of the big opportunity to add Andrew Mellon's signature to the collection. That's the former Secretary of the Treasury who is being helped into his coat after the wedding of his nephew, Richard K. Mellon, to Mrs. Constance Prosser McCauley at Englewood, N. J.

remained unchanged since ancient times.

Where the clinical picture of a disease varies from that which characterized it centuries ago, the change is not so much to be ascribed to an alteration in the germ cause, as in the improvement of "the soil," that is, of the human body and its resistance to disease. For, after all, the human body is far from passive, and the clinical picture is the compounded result of the contest between the noxious agent (germ) and the opposing forces of the body.

SMALL BACKING ENTIRE TICKET: FEARS NEW DEAL

Kankakee, April 29.—(AP)—Former Governor Len Small, who ran second in the race for the Republican nomination for governor Monday urged the Kankakee county Republican central committee to endorse the entire Republican state ticket headed by C. Wayland Brooks for governor and Otis F. Glenn for United States senator.

Action on Small's motion was unanimous.

"I don't like to think what would happen if the New Deal should win this fall," Small told the committee.

"The Democrats would take it as a public endorsement of their waste and extravagance.

"Voters should return to the American form of government and the principles of the Republican party."

Small expressed thanks for support given him in the primary, saying he was especially gratified by the 12 to 1 vote in his favor returned in Kankakee county.

Talks With Brother After Half Century

Waukegan, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—William W. Mitchell, 61, still hadn't seen his brother for 50 years Tuesday, but at least he had talked with him by telephone.

On his father's 61st birthday Russell Mitchell, assistant manager of the Waukegan telephone office, succeeded in locating the brother, Robert Alexander Mitchell, 58, at Portland, Ore., through telephone records. A long distance call brought the brothers "together" for the first time since their father died.

CCC WORK NEAR POLO PRAISED

Lodges, Shelters Are Part of Building in State Park

Polo.—A recent publication put out by the CCC men at the White Pines Forest State Park gives one a fair idea of the progress which has been made on the construction program begun when the camp first became established.

Built entirely of logs, we read of a marvelous group which includes a spacious lounge; a dining room and kitchen; thirteen overnight cabins and a large comfort station with showers.

They tell us also that here and there throughout the park, wherever needed, are four large shelters, five trailside shelters, two sheltered drinking fountains, one vehicle bridge and two foot bridges. Cooking fireplaces and picnic tables have been generously supplied and miles and miles of trails have been constructed and marked.

Roads, fences and parking places have been built; a deep well and a sewage disposal system have been put in operation. This summer, it would seem, Mr. and Mrs. John Public will be able to enjoy at this spot, such perfect conditions for recreation as they never before have experienced.

For those who are inclined to the thought that havoc has been wrought here by the workings of man, there remains a large section still untouched. It has its beginning at the place where Spring creek joins Pine creek several hundred yards below the concession stand. Starting here, between moss covered cliffs, decorated with trailing vines, a deep ravine literally filled with ferns and interesting plants, winds its way through miles and miles of rare scenic beauty.

Films Enter Second Generation

No longer can it be said that the movies are an "infant" industry, for they have reached the second generation among famous families of screen players. Here, for example, are three parent and child pairs who have become famous in films. At top right is young Alice Moore, daughter of Alice Joyce, top left, who was a favorite in silent screen days. Below, left, are the prominent Douglas Fairbanks, Senior and Junior; and right, Francis X. Bushman, Senior and Junior.

Washington Parade

By CARLISLE BARGERSON

Washington—A terribly lonely feeling has come over the Washington newspaper corps as a result of Mr. Roosevelt's orders that his horde of publicity agents keep their output to a minimum. It is part of the New Deal's strategy of maintaining the calm until after the elections. The idea, in reducing the publicity output, is to keep Washington off the "front pages" as much as possible.

You can imagine how the correspondents are going around with pouts looking like a youngster that sucks his thumb. The corridors of the National Press Club where so many of the correspondents have their offices can be negotiated easily for the first time in months. It used to be that when we returned to our offices after roaming around town all day we could hardly get into them. The hand-outs from the numerous alphabetical agencies would be piled up almost a foot high outside the door.

Often, it was with difficulty that we lifted the package from the WPA. Frequently it was four or five inches thick detailing the boondoggling projects that had been approved during the day. For a long time the correspondents would just dump the whole works into the wastebasket. Then some of the more enterprising of them got to digging out one little particularly funny boondoggling project each day and sending it to their papers under the heading "Today's Boondoggle."

Then we came to look for the north of Compton Sunday evening Charles Higgins of Milwaukee, Wis., was killed and George W. Ware, also of Milwaukee, was seriously injured. The pair was enroute to Little Rock, Ark., where Mr. Ware was to visit his sick mother. In an attempt to round a sharp curve traveling at a high rate of speed, the car left the road and turned over several times.

Named as G.O.P. Keynoter

Temporary chairman and keynote speaker of the Republican national convention in Cleveland, O., will be Senator Frederick C. Steiwer of Oregon, above. The choice by the arrangements committee was unanimous. Steiwer was favored by the Borah forces. He is a lawyer, a World War veteran, and rated as a liberal. He is serving his second term in the Senate.

FOLLY and FAREWELL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA BOURNE, 20 years old, pretty and socially prominent in the little town of Newtown, is left almost penniless after the sudden death of her father.

She becomes friendly with PETER GARDINER, political reporter, and shows him a scenario she has written. Peter gets Linda a job as society reporter.

DIX CARTER, with whom Linda is in love, goes abroad to study singing for a year. His letters are far between. Trying to forget Dix, Linda goes away on a vacation.

Peter meets her on her return, suddenly says, "Linda, will you marry me?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

THERE was a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce, all the members of the Chamaine Society, and some 20 other people on the station platform when Linda said, "I think I'd say 'yes,'" but that did not deter Peter Gardiner from crushing Linda Bourne in his tweed-clad arms. Nor from kissing her on her eyes and not on her mouth. Nor from hailing an ancient, battered taxi with an air of opulence never seen before at the Newtown station.

But, once in the taxi, they found nothing to say to each other. It was too late now to say anything. Linda thought, and wondered if this had all been unexpected. Had she really thought Peter had asked her this second time in a spirit of fun? And, remembering his face and her answer, she knew that she had believed him and answered the way she had intended. Later she would have time to think more clearly. But now perhaps it was just as well. What else had she? No love, no family and no clear goal in the future.

She stole a sidelong look at Peter, and liked what she saw. She liked his long legs, the easy carriage of his broad shoulders, the lean look in his thin face. She liked the way he knitted his brow when he was thinking, and now she liked the way his whole face seemed picked out by a light. A light that she had made possible. She was unaccountably glad that she had made him happy. She knew what it was to be let down. She would never let Peter down.

She was a little afraid to have him speak. If he got lover-like or abject, she wouldn't be able to stand it.

DURING that pause he looked at her sternly. "You have a dirty face," he said. "And I refuse to give a girl with a dirty face these nice, clean, white gardenias."

Good for Peter. He wouldn't ever disappoint her, she thought.

"I'll wash it the minute I get home and then I'll pin on the gardenias and you may take them to the Villa Rosa for a huge dinner," she answered.

"Okay, lady. This is your day. But later . . . er . . . suppose we stop at my house and break the news to Mother?"

"Not tonight . . . let's . . . let's just keep it for ourselves for a little while." Linda had a curious reluctance to tell Mrs. Gardiner. She didn't believe it yet herself and she must have time to accustom herself to the idea. She knew that she had qualms and, for all her determination to forget the past, she could not be rushed into the future.

Mrs. Peter Gardiner, Linda Gardiner. The name sounded strange to her and she shrank from its strangeness.

Linda wouldn't let Peter tell anyone, and, when he pressed her to name a wedding day, she put him off. They could hardly marry on his salary, she pointed out. She begged for a longer engagement, and talked vaguely about the next spring. Like all girls, she wanted to prepare for her wedding. She wanted to sell the house. She wanted all manner of things that she thought up on the spur of the moment.

Linda was right. Peter thought, when he sat down to face the problems that his marriage would involve. He couldn't bring Linda home to the little house. He couldn't ask her to take his mother into their home either. Yet he could not support two households.

GONE were the lazy nights for Peter. The clack of his typewriter beat a steady tattoo long into the night after he had left Linda. There was no more money than his salary to be made in Newtown, so it must be made elsewhere. The vague plans for a play became typed and retyped pages, and they grew in proportion to those midnight hours of work.

Of this Linda knew nothing, but Linda's nights were not those of dreamless sleep when Peter left her. Her arms akimbo on the low sill of her bedroom window, she stared pensively over the snow-covered hills many of those winter nights and wondered about the tomorrows, trying to reason right and wrong. She loved Peter, but she did not love him as he loved her or as she had loved Dix. When the first strangeness of his carresses had worn away, she found she liked the strength of his arms and, if her lips were not responsive to his, they were not cold.

"Next spring," she said, putting off the day when she would no longer be able to decide. Yet there was never a moment that she did not intend to marry him.

Christmas, the first real Christmas Linda had ever known, came, and she helped to trim the tree that filled the little Gardiner living room. She basted the turkey, sang Christmas carols, went to church with Mrs. Gardiner, and heard not a word that was spoken.

"You shouldn't have given me such an expensive gift," she said to Peter when she opened the little white box and saw the gold bracelet with its tiny charms.

"I'll let you in on a secret," Peter answered, looking very proud of himself. "I expect to be rich."

"I'd like you just as well if you weren't," she said sincerely.

"I shall buy you ermine pillows for your feet to walk upon and stars to hang in your hair," he said, touching her dark hair and telling her no more.

THE play was finished. Two days before Christmas Peter had put it in an envelope and sent it to New York. To Holbein, the great producer of them all. And in his desk drawer was Linda's scenario. He was glad now that he hadn't told her he was going to send it to Hollywood. Her disappointment would have been bitter had she known it was returned. Now it didn't matter; his triumph would be hers. He would make up for that loss by the sale of his own play.

That it would be rejected he did not dream. Peter was no fool, but he knew he had a good play.

Peter took to whistling at the time the mail came in. He didn't want anyone to know how anxiously he waited for it. And when three weeks had passed, five weeks and then the sixth, he was lulled to a false security. The play was being "considered." Else why would Holbein's office keep it so long?

They had considered it, the letter said, when it finally arrived from Holbein's office. They thought, "It might be good picture material," and suggested that he "try Hollywood."

Peter tore up the letter and dropped the play in the bottom drawer of his desk. It was February and the spring was nearly here. Peter wanted to marry Linda in the spring, but now the possibility seemed more remote than ever. Peter chewed the bitten pipe far into the night, and went to work on another play with far less hope than he had had before.

And then Honey Harmon, glittering, glamorous, blondly brilliant star of the cinema, came to one of the "big" picture houses of Newtown.

With two maids, a manager and a press agent, a chauffeur, three dogs and six trunks, she swept into town wearing a sable coat, a Paris frock the like of which Newtown had never seen, and a jeweler's windowful of diamond bracelets, to make a "personal appearance." And, more importantly, to sweep the quiet surface of the lives of Linda Bourne and Peter Gardiner into whirling eddies.

A Primitive Nursery in Baby-Minded America!

In a dark, ill-ventilated cabin, this backwoods grandmother fans away flies from a baby, as she rocks his crude, wooden cradle. Not a phase of pioneer life, but a glimpse into a present-day home near Sheffield, Ala., this scene affords a striking contrast to the healthful environment and scientific care to which National Baby Week and Child Health Day are dedicated. Primitive homes such as this rapidly are being supplanted by modern ones, as the Tennessee Valley project develops.

CUTTEN ACCUSED OF EVADING HIS 1929 INCOME TAX

Total Evasion Charge Raised to $644,469 In New Count

Chicago, April 29.—(AP)—Charged last month with attempting to evade $414,515 in 1929 income taxes, Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain trader, was accused by the Federal grand jury in a second indictment Tuesday with attempting to evade $229,944.66 in 1930 and 1933.

The new indictments two counts charged Cutten attempted to evade payments of $58,579.75 on a gross 1930 income of $702,850.31, and a net income of $334,598.76; and payments of $171,364.91 on a gross 1933 income of $568,891.13 and a net of $529,990.2.

Tuesday's true-bill raised the total evasion charged against him to $644,469. It put his income for three years under scrutiny.

The second indictment was returned before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson as Cutten lay ill in his hotel suite.

Former Agent Named
As in the first indictment, returned March 10, the Federal grand jury today named William E. Gatewood, a former agent of the internal revenue department, with Cutten, Gatewood has been a consultant on income tax affairs since quitting the government service. He was charged in both true-bills with "aiding and abetting."

That Cutten, famous for million-bushel deals in grain and for long-term forecasts of agricultural prospects, took losses on his own farm land was shown in the income schedule set out by today's indictment.

He claimed a loss of $15,949 on his farms in 1930, and $16,902 in 1931.

GOVERNMENT LOSES

The government appeared today to have lost its Supreme Court fight to bar Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago from grain market trading for two years.

After hearing a justice department attorney contend the Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago erred in setting aside Cutten's suspension by the grain futures administration, Chief Justice Hughes told the Chicagoan's attorney that he need not reply.

Such instructions usually means the court has decided to rule against the side which has been heard.

In refusing to sustain the suspension of Cutten on accusations of illegal manipulations of the wheat market, the Chicago court held the passage in the grain futures act—"is violating"—could not apply to acts which had been completed in the past.

Counsel Interrupted

While arguing against this point, the government's attorney, Wendell erge, was interrupted by Justice Sutherland.

"You contend," said the justice, "that Congress should have written into the statute the term 'had violated' instead of 'is violating.' Congress not having done so, you want the court to do so?"

Arguing that the law contemplated a "reasonable" length of time to detect violations, Berge said:

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

"LIBERTY" FOR REFUGEES.

FRANCE, the country that presented the Statue of Liberty to the United States just 50 years ago, has remembered its gift and the ideal for which it stands, by means of a new stamp. Its purpose is to raise a fund for the aid of political refugees from other countries. Purchasers pay 75 centimes for the postage—50 centimes additional to the fund.

Hardly a better subject could have been selected for such stamp. The colossal statue of a woman holding aloft a torch was designed by Frederic Bartholdi and presented to the United States in 1886, after having been paid for by popular subscription in France.

Since 1886 it has stood on Bedloe's Island in New York harbor, welcoming to America the millions who have come to this country to establish their new homes and enjoy the advantages of a democratic country.

Uruguay, in 1919, and Peru, in 1934, used the same subject. And in the United States, the current 15-cent stamp shows the Statue of Liberty.

two years would fall within this provision in complicated transactions. The commission, made up of Secretaries Roper and Wallace and Attorney General Cummings, charged Cutten tried to manipulate wheat prices in 1930 and 1931 by failing to report short holdings of millions of bushels.

RADIO ASSISTS ORCHARDISTS TO CONTROL PESTS

With insect pests responsible for a 42 million dollar annual damage to the nation's fruit crop, Lee County orchardists are enlisting the aid of radio in an attempt to protect their fruit crops, according to Farm Adviser Chas. E. Yale.

Throughout the growing season Station WLS at 11.45 A. M. to 12.30 P. M. on Tuesday will present a report of recent developments in the orchard insect and disease situation. The reports are summaries of surveys made by the Illinois State Natural History Survey, the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Purdue University, the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, the bureau of entomology of the Federal department of agriculture and 24 cooperating growers.

Other nearby stations carrying the reports are Station WJJD at 6.30 A. M. to 7.00 A. M. on Monday, Eastern Standard time.

The reports give the stage of development reached by insects and suggest the most desirable spray to be used in their control as well as the time at which the spray would be most effective. Similar information is given for diseases. Conditions in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Missouri are covered in the reports. Last year they proved not only of value to orchardists but of interest to con-

PRICE ON HEAD OF NUMBER ONE ENEMY BOOSTED

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The price on the head of Alvin Karpis has gone up to $7,000 as the postoffice inspection service disclosed an undercover search for the man now rated as "Public Enemy No. 1."

The inspection service offered $2,000 for information resulting in the arrest and conviction of Karpis and another $2,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of his companion, Harry Campbell.

Attorney General Cummings offered $5,000 for Karpis leads and $2,500 for Campbell tips last week. The inspection service said it has been working closely with the federal bureau of investigation since Karpis and Campbell were named as leaders of a gang which recently robbed a train at Garrettsville, Ohio.

The bureau of investigation wants Karpis and Campbell for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul, Minn., banker on January 17, 1934. Karpis is also charged with the earlier kidnaping of William A. Hamm, Jr., St. Paul brewer.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else, Doc.
